

Secondary School Head Teachers to be trained on Whole School Development through the Integration of ICTs

When: 4th – 5th December 2017

Where: Kenya School of Government, Nairobi

Event: African Digital Schools Initiative (School Leaders Training)

The African Digital Schools Initiative (ADSI) Programme will conduct a two-day school leaders training on Monday and Tuesday next week. The event will be held at The Kenya School of Government Premises in Nairobi, Kenya.

The African Digital Schools Initiative (ADSI) is a new and innovative programme to transform 80 secondary schools to Digital Schools of Distinction in the counties of Nyamira, Kiambu, Taita Taveta and Narok.

The objectives of the course for school heads are:

Objective 1: To develop strategies for effective project implementation at school level

Objective 2: Conduct school self-evaluation of Digital School of Distinction (DSD) status

Objective 3: Explore planning tools enabling ICT use across the curriculum and building ICT School Culture

Objective 4: Develop DSD school for 2018 implementation, monitoring and evaluation

This training comes a week after regional teachers' conferences where over 700 secondary school teachers were awarded certification for successfully completing cycle 1 of the ICT integration course in technology literacy in line with the ICT Competency Framework for teachers.
